

VALMARECCHIA

This is the route that we'll explain in this presentation:

- Valmarecchia
- Poggio Berni
- Pennabilli

The Nature Observatory of Valmarecchia

- The Nature Observatory of Valmarecchia is located inside the Nature Reserve of Montebello, one of the most interesting areas of the Province of Rimini on a natural and historical point of view. The Observatory offers to all its visitors, adults and children, the possibility to discover the beauties of the Marecchia valley and of its evolution, through displays and interactive games.

Inside the structure, in the wide room of the first floor, different kinds of natural environments you can see along the Valmarecchia, are represented, as well as a big water terrarium in which we can find the vegetal and animal species that populate and animate the water of the river.

● On the second floor, a great plastic model of the valley of Marecchia, a collection of fossils, rocks and minerals of the valley and the reconstruction of medieval life, with fortresses and castles. Outside there is a botanical path that expands in a circle around the village of Montebello and offers the possibility to study easily a few species of plants. The Observatory is visited by many pupils all over the year

MULINO SAPIGNOLI (POGGIO BERNI)

- The mill Sapignoli works until 1980. It is a place that respects the environment. It represents the most complete and well-equipped mills in Valmarecchia. From this place you can see the sea and the entire coast. The museum provides a link between the heritage of traditional milling and the public. It is both the place of production and of transformation of energy. The mill is an important manufacturing location for the local economy. It is also the place of mystery, a place of legends and the presence of goblins.

PENNABILLI

- Pennabilli is a beautiful city situated in the mountains, where there are lots of interesting activities and museum to see, let's see two of them:

Tonino Guerra's Path

In Pennabilli you can find a path in the nature in memory of Tonino Guerra, a famous Italian poet and playwright.

Some important places to see in this path are:

- Natural History Museum (in Sasso Simone Simoncello), where we can find lots of animals living in the land,
- The Forgotten Fruit's Garden: where we can admire some disappeared trees, such as "biricoccolo", similar to apricot, and lots of monuments and buildings of some important artists.

Mateureka: Maths' Museum

In this original museum you can find all the inventions and the discovers in the Maths' field.

It's possible to participate in this museum at some interactive laboratories, in order to understand better some of the most important Math's rules, such as Pitagora's Theorem or the "greek pi".
